Catherine Rucker, widow of John Turnbull, sells two slaves to Sylvia Turnbull, illegitimate daughter of John Turnbull. She is represented by her curator, David White.

Sylvia Turnbull's name appeared frequently in the records of Spanish West Florida. She was the daughter of an Indian woman. David White left her his entire estate when he died, after which his will was contested by persons who sought to prove they were his legal heirs. For further reference, see Succession of John Turnbull, Vol. III, p. 287; Succession of David White, Vol. XVI, p. 93, and Vol. XVII, p. 1.

[Written in Spanish]

Be it known unto all who may see this act that I, [p.1] Catherine Rucker, widow of John Turnbull, sell, really and with effect, to David White, a resident of the District of Baton Rouge, acting as curator of the minor, Sylvia Turnbull, natural daughter of my said deceased husband and for her account, two mulattoes, natives of this province of Louisiana, one named Marguerite, twelve years old, and the other named Sukey, ten years old, the two thus sold for the price and sum of nine hundred pesos, which have been paid to me in hand, and for the said minor, for which I give a formal receipt, the said slaves being my personal property, without concession from the company which my deceased husband had with the deceased John Joyce, which slaves are free of encumbrance or mortgage; in virtue of which, I renounce all rights of ownership, possession, use, dominion, and seignior which I had and have in the said two slaves, all which rights I cede and transfer in favor of the purchaser, in order that as his own property, that is, the minor, Sylvia, she may possess, exchange, sell or dispose of them at will, in virtue of this act of sale, which I execute in her favor in token of a real delivery, and I renounce the law of the non numerata pecunia, fraud, and the rest of the case, etc., etc., by which his having acquired possession has to be seen without the necessity of other proof, from which I release him, and I obligate myself to the eviction, security, and guarantee of this sale in due legal form with my property, present and future. I hereby insert the guaranteeing clause, renouncing the laws in my favor with the general one which may prohibit it, and I empower the courts of His Majesty in order that they may compel me to its accomplishment with the force of a rendered judgment, etc., etc., and I, the said David White, being present at the execution of this act of sale, [p.2] accept it in my favor, for the account of the minor, Sylvia Turnbull, in order that she can make use of the services of the said two mulattoes as her own property, obligating myself as curator to be responsible for anything contrary to the interests of the said minor, and I, the said Sylvia Turnbull, being present at the execution of this act, accept it in my favor, the aforesaid two mulattoes, and we both acknowledge, of our own free will, that we have received them, in virtue of having paid for them in hand to the vendor, renouncing the laws in our favor, those of things not seen, or agreed, fraud, and others of case, etc., etc. In testimony whereof, this act is executed on June 20, 1800.

I, Don Carlos de Grand-Pré, Colonel of the Royal armies, Civil and Military Governor of this Post and its Dependencias, certify that I know the grantors, who signed it with the witnesses, Charles Norwood and Juan de Mier y Peran.

In the case of Martin Turnbull, of this city vs. New Orleans and Carrollton Railroad Company, the jury brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $5,500 in the U. S. Circuit Court at New Orleans last Thursday week. This was a suit for damages brought by Mr.
Turnbull for the death of his little son, Brisbane, who was run over, mangled and killed on the 9th of February, 1901, by one of the cars of the above company.

Mr. A. G. Cowart from the Latoria neighborhood was in our city Friday simon-pure Democrat.

Mr. C. Nelson visited New Orleans on business Thursday.

Mr. Thomas Howell, of the northern part of this county was here Saturday to pay his taxes. He did not forget to drop in the DEMOCRAT-STAR office and settle his subscription, which he never fails to do every year. He is the right kind of a patron of the "Old Reliable." We wish we had a thousand more like him.

Rev. J. A. Jackson, a Protestant missionary visited our city this week.

61 years. Deceased was a good Christian.
The interment was made in the Pasca-Deputy collector of Customs, W. R.

Moseley returned Monday night from a business visit to Jackson.

Mr. Irving J. Delmas from Biloxi attended the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. A.
Blumer last Saturday.

The editor of the DEMOCRAT-STAR is awakened to a lively interest which is being manifested by the young and old church for the benefit of the Sunday school children. Mrs. Mamie Friar, Mrs. Geo. W. Lachler and Miss Lena tertainment.

Miss Mamie Stemper has returned from a two week's visit to Mobile.

Mrs. Amanda Hall and Miss C. P.

Scranton is sadly in need of a modern hotel.

The new gasoline tug Rita J., owned by Capt. J. C. Delmas is making a fine record as a home built boat.

There are fine sites for factories on both banks of the Pascagoula river.

The filled coaches of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad passenger trains are already showing increased holiday travel. Station Agent John H. Santa Cruz believes that this year will prove a record breaker in the greater number of passengers taking advantage of the holiday rates. The improved day coaches are proving a drawing card for the road.

The extension of the Moss Point & Pascagoula Railroad would not entail great expense. Rev. L. E. Hall says that the trains could be transferred across Escatawpa river by a barge, causing immaterial delay. It is believed that the project will pay handsomely.

The trim little steamboat Alice, Capt.
F. M. Allen, returned to the Pascagoula river from Pearl river last Saturday.
The Alice, owned by Mr. G. M. Luce, will resume plying in the turpentine and rosin trade.

Because a handsome and dashing young M. D., of Wiggins, has visited Scranton several times lately to enjoy the balmy air and fine oysters, Bro.
"Peckay" accuses him of being after a "rosebud" down there. Even so, that is his privilege, and the DEMOCRAT-STAR need not speculate about it. He's a fine fellow and deserves a nice rosebud.

Miss Mary Ella Cowan visited New Orleans last Saturday.

Misses Emma and Ida Frenz returned from New Orleans Monday.

Mr. H. E. Woodman, of Vancleave was No, it is not yet "Lilac Time" but beach improvement says it is "Planting Time."

The Women's Missionary Union of the First Baptist church, indulged in one of the pleasantest meetings of the year, held at the lovely home of Mrs. S. B. McIlwain in "Sunset Parkway" on last Monday afternoon, with Mrs. McIlwain and Mrs. G. S. Williams acting in the role of joint hostesses. The rooms of the reception suite were prettily decorated with numerous Japanese blooms and a very interesting session was pursued. Mrs. Mildred Whitfield of Jackson, Miss., opened the meeting with the reading of several passages of scripture, followed with prayer by Mrs. J. C. Watts and two songs by the members. A very interesting program on "Royal Service" was the special feature of the afternoon. At the close of the study program, the hostesses, assisted by Miss Mildred Sullivan, Miss Fannie Pearl McIlwain and Miss Ralph E. Poir served the afternoon refreshment, sandwiches, cake and tea. Those sharing the pleasures of the afternoon, included: Mesdames Mildred Whitfield, Johnnie Nelson, H. E. Seay, J. C. Watts, Geo. T. Davis, Z. T. Sullivan, W. R. Prouse, Charles Gray, J. S. Abbey, J. L. Scott, Mary Friar, E. A. Norwood, C. L. Thatch, F. M. Waterman, B. M. Whistler, John Watson, C. R. Brubacher, Eugene Duncan, E. E. Burns, H. K. Thornton, R. P. Poir, T. W. Bull, Hudson, J. E. Bates, Miss Lena Hall.

Friends here, and there are legion, will be pleased to learn through a friend who has been to New Orleans recently, who indulged in the pleasure of a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Martin the Turnbull, who for several years were residents of Pascagoula. The family have a lovely home in upper Saratoga street, but Mr. Turnbull unhappily is still physically incapacitated by arthritis, which attacked him several years ago. He retains his wonderful mentality and still boosting the "city of the Singing River." He wishes to be remembered to all friends and expressed his delight in reading Pascagoula's

Memories of Old Pascagoula

By UNCLE MARTIN

The Star of Pascagoula, Nov. 30, 1877, felicitates over the adaptability of our soil for the orange culture and prints this: "We were presented with two oranges last Tuesday by Antonio Marinovich, which weighed two pounds and nine ounces. One of them measured sixteen inches in circumference. They were raised on his place at Bayou Casotte, and were the genuine sweet orange. If only once can beat this we would like to hear from them."

The Star of Pascagoula, December 7, 1877, has this item: "The following is the marriage program for this section, laid out by our marriageable young man: 'On the 12th, one couple; on the 20th, ditto; the latter part of the month, another ditto; and on the 1st of January, a fourth ditto. Of course we shall expect the usual compliments of the happy parties in each case.'"

The Star of Pascagoula, November 29, 1878: "The skating rink will open at the academy next Monday night. All lovers of the sport will have ample opportunities of enjoying themselves during the long winter nights."

The Star of Pascagoula, December 6, 1878: Married—Holder-Ramsay. At Ocean Springs, Miss., December 4, 1878, by Judge H. H. Minor, Mr. Willie W. Holder to Miss Sue E. Ramsay. The happy couple leave for Texas today. We wish them a safe journey and much happiness."

The Star of Pascagoula, December 6, 1878: "Mrs. C. H. Alley has been appointed postmistress at this place. She gave bond and entered upon her duties last Saturday with Mr. Robert Alley as assistant. The appointment of Mrs. Alley is a good one and will give universal satisfaction to the patrons of the office and the citizens generally."

INSPECTOR MARTIN TURNBULL TRANSFERRED TO ST. LOUIS

After devoting the major part of his life to the upbuilding of the port of Pascagoula, both as a shipping point and health resort, Mr. Martin Turnbull, Immigrant Inspector, for the past fourteen years in district No. 8, has been transferred to St. Louis, Missouri, where he will perform similar duties in the U. S. Department of Labor. In April, 1907, the Pascagoula substation of New Orleans was established by Mr. Turnbull, who was transferred in 1916 to New Orleans, where he served for nearly six years and during the war period displayed marked ability in handling alien passengers and seamen.

The closing of the local office is in line with a policy adopted by the Bureau of Immigration to reduce the heavy expenditures in regulating immigration into the country. The work of a general housecleaning throughout the country is done with a view of assisting the heads of the service in creating a high standard of efficiency, among the officials of this most important branch of our government.

The Chronicle-Star bespeaks for "Uncle Martin" a bright future and commends its old and reliable scout to the good graces of the higher ups. Pascagoula regrets the departure of Mr. Turnbull, but knowing that his heart is here, feels that he is only loaned to the 13th district. The Inspector in charge at Gulfport has been designated to attend to the requirements of regulating immigration through this port.

Mr. and Mrs. Frazier, and the motoring parties reached here Saturday afternoon and remained until Sunday.

News of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Turnbull comes from St. Louis, Mo., where at 4163 McPherson Avenue, they are comfortably domiciled. Mr. Turnbull relates, that he is becoming familiar with the geography and topography of the city, and that recently he spent a delightful day at Springfield, Ill., visiting the home- stead of President Lincoln, and saw his many boyhood relics, sat at his desk, inscribed his name, with Pas- cagoula behind it. Mr. Turnbull further states that everything in that vicinity, has the aspect of pros- perity and progress.

IN MEMORIAM.

DIED—On Friday, July 1, 1898, at 10:15 a. m., in the 30th year of her age, MARGUERITE WHITE, wife of Martin Turnbull.

That Christianity alone hath power to rob death of its terrors, to illumine the dark passage of the trembling soul from this life to eternity, and, at the same time, lighten the heavy load of affliction, that ever follows the loss of a beloved object, is a truth to which even the hopeless creed of unbelief dare not give denial. In the life of the subject of this notice—a life wherein the duties of child, of wife and of mother were fulfilled with unselfish devotion—with sweet and tender solicitude for the welfare of those depending upon her—we have an instance of that true Christian character, which, ever submissive to conscience guided by religion, makes, of the humblest home, a heaven upon earth. Such was Marguerite Turnbull, who, through some wise, though unseen, design of Providence, was so suddenly removed from a home, where dwelt, because of her presence, the angels of peace, of content, of happiness, the handmaidens of wifely and maternal love.

The simple and uneventful record of a life, whose sole and daily aim was the unostentatious practice of domestic virtues, may be briefly told. In 1869, when in the bloom of budding womanhood, as fair in face as she was beautiful in character, educated and accomplished, with the grace and refinement that belong to gentle birth and breeding, she was married to Mr. Martin Turnbull, formerly of New Orleans, but for many years past a resident of this county. Four children blessed this union, three of whom survive: Brisbane, Camille and Louisa Courtney, aged, respectively, six, five and three years, the first born, Marguerite, dying ere it had passed the stage of infancy. With but a short interval of absence the too brief space of Mrs. Turnbull's life was passed in our midst, where willing testimony, as universal as it is sincere, to her many endearing qualities, is ample proof of the respect and affection in which she was held. After a short illness, against which medical skill and careful attention were unavailing, the soul of this true Christian wife and mother, faithful in all things to the mission imposed upon her by God and religion, passed to His just and merciful embrace. On the ensuing day, escorted by the following gentlemen, her pallbearers, Messrs. P. K. Mayers, W. M. Gentry, J. T. Johnson, Forrest, J. Johnson, Eugene Gautier and Gaston Poltevin, and followed by family and friends, all that was mortal of Marguerite Turnbull was taken to the Catholic Church where a requiem mass, with its solemn and imposing ceremonies, was sung by priest and choir. Father Ten Brink, the celebrant, in feeling terms, paid a just and beautiful tribute to the character of the deceased, whose life, with few frailties, was singularly ennobled by those quiet virtues, which, though unnoticed by the world, yet make of this world a better and happier one.
With a firm reliance upon the Divine promises, we may well feel and hope that the prayer of the sacred liturgy has been heard and answered:

"Give her eternal rest, Oh, Lord!
And let perpetual light shine upon her."

While the sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved family, absolute consolation does not cannot belong to hearts that feel. We mourn the loss of our beloved dead, for sorrow is the common heritage of mankind; but who would even

Miss Maggie Davis is visiting Mr. F.
Johnson's family.

The young people enjoyed an ice cream pa-at the parsonage last Saturday evening.

The negro minstrel entertainment given the band boys and their friends on the night of the Fourth was a success. A handsome sum was realized for benefit of the band. The fun was closed with a dance.

There will be services by regular appoi-ment next Sunday at Big Point in the morning, and at Caswell Springs at night.

The Fourth was duly celebrated at the hoof Mr. Chris. Mark, in the admiration and praise of the attractive young lady who arrived on the morning of that day. Long may she live to celebrate her birthday, the glorious Fourth.

The Knights of Honor wish to return than-to Mr. L. N. Dantzier for use of steamer and a barge, and to the captain and engine who made the trip so successfully, and to others who contributed an effort to make the day a success.

On Monday night in the crowd at the entainment Mr. Paul Smith and Mr. Geo. Dudley were seriously cut with a knife in the hand of a ruffian, Lindsey Autry. Mr. Smith's wound is in the breast. He was attended Dr. Thompson. Mr. Dudley's cut is on the hand. The man (?) made his escape. It supposed he took Mr. Smith for another man and Mr. Dudley got his cut in the attempt ward off the blow directed at Smith, as saw the fellow in the act of using the knife.

The entertainment last Saturday night the new Davis school-house was well attended.
Every one was delighted and felt well repafor the visit. The following program was most interesting one:

- 1.—Instrumental music.
- 2.—Song, "Welcome," by the singing class.
- 3.—Recitation, "Were Building Two Days," by Miss Minnie Williams.
- 4.—"Farmer Song," by three little boys.
- 5.—Recitation, "Seen' Things," by M. Le Roy Perkins.
- 6.—Music, "Mother's Songs."
- 7.—Recitation, "Praying for Shoes," by Willie Davis.

While the sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved family, absolute consolation does not—cannot—belong to hearts that feel. We mourn the loss of our beloved dead, for sorrow is the common heritage of mankind; but who would—even though he could—relinquish the sweet and tender memories that cling to the dead, though each and every recollection is but a renewed source of grief, and causes our tears to flow afresh?

God has given us hearts to throbb with joy or pain; and hearts that feel the most must bear the greater burden of sorrow. But He has also planted in our souls the hope that robs death of its bitterness, the grave of its horrors; the hope of immortality into whose bright and blessed precincts, nor death, nor bitter sorrow, nor aught of human woe can enter.

The Fourth was duly celebrated at the home of Mr. Chris. Mork, in the admiration and praise of the attractive young lady who died on the morning of that day. Long will she live to celebrate her birthday, the glorious Fourth.

The Knights of Honor wish to return thanks to Mr. J. N. Dantzier for use of steamer and a barge, and to the captain and engine who made the trip so successfully, and to others who contributed an effort to make the day a success.

of Mississippi and Mississippians:

In the year, 1811, there was a memorable election for Governor in the State of Mississippi. The contestants were my old friend, T. M. Tucker, on the one side, and Rev. Mr. Shattuck on the other. The issue was the repudiation of the Union Bank bonds. Tucker bore the Democratic, and Shattuck the Whig banner in this hard-fought battle. The facts were these: An association of gentlemen obtained from the legislature a charter for a bank, with a capital of five million dollars. The charter provided that the State should indorse the bonds of the corporation for five million dollars. The bank at once organized, issued its bonds, and had them indorsed in the manner prescribed in the charter. They were then taken to Philadelphia, and sold to Mr. Biddle, president of the extinct bank of the United States. This was a direct violation of the constitution of the State of Mississippi, and this fact was made known to Mr. Biddle before he purchased the bonds. The commissioners for the sale of these bonds assured Mr. Biddle that they would induce the legislature to ratify the sale. Now it will be remembered that this money was borrowed solely for this private corporation, and was placed, when received, in the vaults of the bank, not one dollar being received, or in any way used, by the State.

Section 9, article 7, general provisions of the Constitution, is in these words:

"No law shall ever be passed to raise a loan of money on the credit of the State, or to pledge the faith of the State for the payment, or redemption, of any loan or debt, unless such law shall be proposed in the Senate or House of Representatives, and be agreed to by a majority of the members of each Club in Epiphany, Ohio, is Democratic through and through. He said:

"The Republican party to-day proceeds upon the identical principles of the Hamilton party, that our Federal government is paternal in its character and supreme in everything, and the State and people do and ought to enjoy only such powers as are permitted or granted by the general government. And now we are boldly confronted with a proposition, which, for boldness and audacity toward the destruction of the States and the centralization of all governmental authority in the hands of the Federal government, finds no parallel in any plan, theory or proposition ever presented or advocated by Alexander Hamilton for the accomplishment of those objects. It is no less than the seizure of the ballot box and the control of the machinery in all the forty-two States of this union for the election of members of Congress and of President and Vice-President."

The Supreme Court in case of L. D. Smith vs. T. G. Rathin, which went on in Lincoln county, has decided that the money due on a policy of insurance on a homestead is not "exempt from liability to legal process against the homestead exemptionist." The Judge intimates that such is the law, but the court was bound to declare the law as it found it and not as the Judges would have it. Here is a good opportunity for some legislator to prepare and introduce an excellent bill in which the money, as well as the house, shall be exempt, the money to stand for the purpose of rebuilding.

On Tuesday last the four new Slaves, North and South Dakota, September 20, 1889, by Rev. J. F. Beard, D. D., assisted by Rev. R. McRae, of Montgomery, who pronounced the beautiful and impressive ritual of the Episcopal Church, which made the happy pair man and wife.

The groom and bride after spending several days in Scranton last week left for Montgomery, Ala., their future home, carrying with them the best wishes of their friends.

Married at the Catholic Church, in Scranton, Miss., Oct. 2, 1889, at 9:30 a.m., at Nuptial Mass, Rev. Father C. A. Oliver, officiating, Mr. MARTIN TURNBULL, and Miss MAIRIE MARGUERITE WHITE, daughter of the late Dennis P. White, of this place.

ATTENDANTS—Miss Blanche Anzain, Mr. James P. Turnbull; Miss Clara O'Connor, Mr. Sciple Barrow; Miss Palmyra White, Mr. Robert A. Vachleave, Jr.; Miss Louise Turnbull, Mr. Will Ladnier.

Mr. Wm. Laughlin, of New Orleans, gave the bride away.

Guests at home, with bride party: Mrs. F. Gantier, Miss Laura Gantier, Mr. and Mrs. Cedron Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard, Mrs. E. Chappaux and daughter, Miss Blanche, Rev. Victor Bailey, Rev. C. A. Oliver, pastor.

The ceremony, with exchange of rings, was beautiful and solemn. The Church is already handsomely furnished with ornaments, statuary and hangings, and there were no gaudy additions of decoration made or needed. The bride was handsomely attired, rather tall, slender and erect with a pretty face. Her dignity and prepossession were attractive and charming in one of her age. Our friend Turnbull looked his best and made quite a handsome bridegroom. "None but the brave deserve the fair," and it is much to say of Mr. Turnbull that we believe he will prove himself deserving of the fairer he has picked from Rome, said it.

The bridal party left on the Wednesday evening on the 3:30 train for New Orleans to spend their honeymoon.

New Immigrant Inspector.

Martin Turnbull, U. S. Immigrant Inspector, transferred from New Orleans to this port Tuesday last, assumed charge of his post during the week. Mr. Turnbull is well known to the old citizens, having lived here the major part of his life.

In commenting on the progressiveness of the port, Mr. Turnbull expressed much enthusiasm for the industrial development prevailing throughout the harbor and adjacent territory. "It is the gift of nature to the Southern people this Central port on the Northern Coast of the Gulf of Mexico designated to become a port of prominence for the West Indian trade. One pleasing feature I observe," said Mr. Turnbull, "is the perfect coordination among the public and the enterprising captains of industry showing contentment, civic pride and American patriotism. This is the aim and design of our great President to bring the greatest happiness, the greatest independence to the people of all races composing the subjects of all nations of the Universe."

"Improved sanitary conditions shall follow close on the heels of substantial industrial development. This feature is in the hands of that splendid department, the Public Health & Marine Hospital Service which under trained surgeons and helpers will shortly place the port on a par with other points where vermin, offal and waste has been eliminated. "Praise" rather than criticism must become the Public's slogan because greater eventualities are obtained only by a harmonious spirit. The Government offices are conducted on the highest efficiency and likewise every corporation exacts the same proficiency from attaches. Now for beautiful Pascagoula!"
